Compton Acres, Poole & Abbotsbury Sub-Tropical Gardens in Dorset

Compton Acres is a large privately owned garden in Poole, Dorset, England. It was founded in 1920 by Thomas William Simpson, an entrepreneur who had become wealthy through the manufacture of margarine. The gardens consist of five themed sub-gardens: an Italian garden, a rock and water garden, a heather garden, a Japanese garden and a less formal garden called the "Wooded Valley".

Abbotsbury Subtropical Gardens originate in 1765 and have developed into 8 hectares (20 acres) site with exotic plants, many of which were newly discovered species when they were first introduced. There are formal and informal gardens, with woodland walks and walled gardens; in addition, the gardens also contain certain "zones" that exhibit plants from different geographical areas.

Timetable & Costs

The luxury coach departs Liphook Millennium Hall at 7.45am, St Christopher's Green 8.15am and Haslemere Hall at 8.30am. It arrives at Compton Acres at 10.15am.
